

Oct, 2nd. 2004

A new and heavily improved search engine is online.

It features a fuzzy search where hits are related.

The heaviest improvement is the ability to find entries, even if there is a spelling mistake in the entry/search query. Go ahead and try it. One example: search for memory will find a 100% hit on linux memory management. Try (for example) memory or menory. The search will find it anyway :)

Have fun with the new search engine.